

EXPECT TVA PROBE WILL BE APPROVED

Broadened Resolution Arouses Little Opposition

Washington, March 30.—(AP)—A broadened resolution for a congressional investigation of the Tennessee Valley Authority aroused little opposition today among House members.

Accordingly, the voting this afternoon was expected to be something of a formality, preceded by three or four hours of debate.

The rules committee recommended a dozen changes in the senate resolution, but it would leave intact the fundamental provisions for an inquiry into the dissension among the three TVA directors and President Roosevelt's ouster of Chairman Arthur Morgan.

Some sentiment developed against a provision to instruct an investigating committee of five senators and five representatives to look into operations of private utility companies serving the Tennessee valley. Some rules committee members, however, contended an inquiry scarcely could avoid touching on the conflict between TVA and private power companies.

Blanket Authority
The resolution would give the investigators blanket authority to pry into any matters pertaining to TVA administration and policies and direct them specifically to determine, among other things, whether:

1. Any interference or handicaps have been placed in the way of efficient and economical administration of the quarrel among the TVA directors.
2. Any director has assisted a private power company in legal proceedings involving the authority.
3. TVA power rates provide a legitimate "yardstick" of equitable private debts.
4. There is any truth in charges of former Chairman Morgan that attempts have been made to defraud the government in connection with land purchases and that TVA affairs have been conducted "in a clandestine manner."
5. The authority has offered undue inducements to industry to migrate to the Tennessee valley.
6. The agency has forced rural customers to buy expensive, unnecessary and undesired electrical appliances.

Appropriation Bills
While preparations were being completed for this first inquiry into a New Deal agency, congress was pushing ahead rapidly with its routine work—the annual appropriation bills.

The house approved yesterday the expenditure of $448,116,284 to operate the army next year. The bill, which provides $32,853,130 more than the current appropriation, includes funds to increase the army's potential air force to 3,302 planes.

The senate was prevented from reaching a vote yesterday on the $549,000,000 naval appropriation bill by opposition of Senator Clark (D-Mo.). He advocated a 15 per cent reduction.

An amendment by Senator Bone (D-Wash.) to prevent naval construction in private shipyards was defeated, 40 to 21.

The bill is separate from the billion-dollar naval expansion program, which will reach the senate floor soon.

Accommodating
Cumberland, Md., Mar. 30.—(AP)—A policeman's lot is not a happy one—except when he deals with people like Ezra Dorsey.

Dorsey called up the police station and said:

"You got a warrant for me? I'm helping a fellow fix a house now, but if you want me I'll be home after 5:30."

He was. Police took him to jail on a charge of assaulting his wife.

Commissioner Vaile Urges City Clean-up
Commissioner of Streets Joe E. Vaile today appealed to citizens of Dixon to cooperate in the annual clean-up of streets and alleys, urging a compliance to the city ordinances in this program. The commissioner appealed to the civic pride of the citizenry in disposing of rubbish raked from lawns and urged that they refrain from piling the refuse in the street and alleys or burning the rubbish in the streets.

"The department is ready and willing to cooperate in every way in conducting the regular spring clean-up campaign which has arrived much earlier this season because of the mild weather," he stated. "It is not the desire to cause arrests and prosecutions for violations of the city ordinances and citizens who have refuse to be disposed of may notify the city clerk's office and in this way cooperate with the department in disposing of the refuse as soon as collected and in this way prevent it from being blown over the properties of other citizens, who have completed their spring clean-up."

Fishermen of Rock River Granted Consideration in Their Protests
Fishermen who in past seasons have operated out lines in Rock River have been granted consideration in their protests against the prohibition of this type of fishing in the stream, which is classified as a state fish preserve, it was learned here today. The department of conservation headquarters at Springfield is reported to have been swamped with complaints from fishermen since announcement was made that Rock river would be closed to out line fishing.

The announcement made today that fishermen will be permitted to operate lines as in the past but the maximum number of hooks used on each line is not to exceed 100. A final ruling is expected by

Approved

An Associated Press dispatch from Springfield today announced today modernization projects on U. S. route 30, the Lincoln Highway, have been approved by the state highway division. Work is to be started this year in the replacement of the old pavement east of Dixon and on grading and bridge work on the relocation of the route between Franklin Grove and Rochelle.

Attorney H. C. Warner of the legal staff of the Chicago Motor club today received notification of the above changes. No changes are contemplated west of Dixon it is indicated and an official of the state highway department at Springfield is quoted as follows:

"A number of our older roads such as this, have become obsolete, and it is our intention to proceed with the modernization of these as rapidly as our financial ability will permit."

GALENA AVENUE BRIDGE TRIP IS EXPENSIVE ONE
While the Galena avenue bridge has never been a toll structure, two women who scaled the woven wire barricade at the south approach last evening about 7 o'clock, and then climbed over a drilling machine to complete their walk across the bridge, decided that it was an expensive trip across Rock river.

The cost, however, was lessened by the intervention of Mayor William Slothower, who appeared at the hearing before Justice J. O. Shaulis at noon today.

Mrs. Marjorie Reilly and Mrs. Leona Valbert, employees at the Dixon state hospital were the pedestrians whom Officers Jones and McIntyre last evening halted shortly after they had climbed the barricade at the north approach and ordered to report at police headquarters today. Under the provisions of the new emergency ordinance prohibiting all traffic on the bridge, charges were filed in Justice Shaulis court and fines of $5 and costs were ordered. Mayor Slothower recommended that the fine be remitted and the court complied, but insisted that the costs of $3.40 each be met. These were the first arrests to be made under the new emergency ordinance passed by the council less than two weeks ago.

NAVY FLIERS ARE BELIEVED KILLED IN PLANE CRASH
Honolulu, March 30.—(AP)—Five navy fliers were missing today and officials feared they were killed in the crash of a big patrol bombing plane of Waianae, on the island of Oahu.

A sixth man, unconscious, was brought to a hospital, and another reached shore safely.

Returning to the naval base through a heavy rainstorm after participating in scouting maneuvers, the twin-engine flying boat struck the sea and was partly submerged.

Seven men were aboard. G. J. Niles, radioman third class, swam ashore and notified the commandant's office.

Later, H. F. Bartz, aviation machinist's mate first class, was washed ashore unconscious. He was removed to Waianae hospital.

MANUFACTURER SUICIDES
Chicago.—(AP)—Merwin Heald, 41, wealthy vice-president of two electrical concerns, the Robertson-Davis Co., Inc., and James W. Doyle, Inc., died at the dinner table of his suburban River Forest home yesterday.

Mrs. Dorothy Fleming, a maid, told police she saw Heald drink a glass of milk into which he had dropped a powder, and Dr. Benjamin Lichtenstein, who conducted an autopsy, declared the executive died from the effects of a swift-acting poison.

ASKS HOUSE TO START DEBATE ON GOV'T BILL

To Unite Four More Bills To Reorganization Plan

Washington, March 30.—(AP)—The special reorganization committee overrode Republican objections today and voted to ask the House to start six hours' debate on the administration's reorganization legislation tomorrow.

It formally ratified a decision of Democratic members to unite four bills, previously approved by the committee, in a single bill as a substitute for that passed Monday by the Senate.

Chairman Cochran (D-Mo.) said the vote on that procedure was 7 to 2. The only Republicans on the committee, Representative Taber (R-N.Y.) and Gifford (R-Mass.), formed the minority.

Taber asked for public hearings on the legislation, he said, but was turned down on another party vote.

Cochran said the House would be asked to meet at 10 A. M. (C. S. T.) tomorrow—an hour earlier than usual—to start work on the reorganization measure.

No changes were made in the form of the four House bills. Gifford left the committee meeting to assert that the minority members "have to be agreeable to the six hour limit on debate."

"I begged with all my powers," he said, "to postpone the bill a few days until the public mind could have assurance we were giving it careful consideration and was informed we would retain the comptroller general's office."

"There is no question," Taber said, "but that the president is trying to destroy the control of Congress over appropriations and an honest audit of accounts and is trying to break down the civil service."

Both supporters and foes of the administration's broad program agreed the House struggle would be as intense as that in the Senate. The thousands of telegraphic protests which senators had received were being duplicated in the other chamber.

Must Restudy Provisions
Although two of the House reorganization bills were passed last summer, members will have to reconsider their provisions when the omnibus measure comes up. The two would have authorized the appointment of six presidential assistants and would have empowered the president to merge and rearrange federal agencies during the next two years.

The Senate and House reorganization programs differ most widely in their treatment of the general accounting office. The Senate bill would place its functions in the budget bureau. The House bill would retain the office of comptroller general.

Both measures would create a new auditor general who would review administration expenditures and report to congress.

The fourth original House bill is similar to provisions in the Senate measure substituting a single civil service administrator for the present three-man commission.

President Roosevelt vacationing at Warm Springs, Ga., told reporters yesterday that Senate approval of the reorganization program "proves that the Senate cannot be purchased by organized telegrams based on direct misrepresentation."

"Outside Inducements"
Senator Wheeler (D-Mont.), one of the bills leading foes, commented.

Blizzards, Tornadoes Heavy Rains Features Of Day's Weather News
Colorado and Parts of Canada Suffer in Heavy Snow

Columbus, Kas., March 30.—(AP)—A tornado tore through this town of 3,500 near noon today, twisting apart a school and 30 other buildings and injuring an estimated 50 persons, many of them children.

The slashing storm was one of a series which dipped into Arkansas, Oklahoma, Missouri and Kansas. Three persons were reported killed in Boone county, Missouri. A woman was killed at Republican, Ark.

Thirty school pupils barely escaped injury near Chetopa, Kas. Residences were damaged at Ramona, Okla.

But of all Columbus, nestled in extreme southeastern Kansas, fringed by Oklahoma and Missouri in the Tri-State lead and coal mining area, was hardest hit. The storm lashed from eight to ten city blocks in Columbus.

Swirling out of the southwest with tornado winds, rain and hail the twister bore down on the West

Are Winds Gentler?
Washington, Mar. 30.—(AP)—Are the winds growing gentler? Weather bureau officials pondered that question today as the season for the greatest tornado frequency began. The number of storms so far this year has been far below normal.

Last year's tornado death toll of 28, the bureau said, is the lowest since records were started in 1916. Tornado damage in 1937 was estimated at about $3,000,000 compared with $26,228,000 in 1936.

Side Highland grade school where several hundred pupils were housed.

Raged 20 Minutes
It was between 11 o'clock and noon, Central Standard time, the storm raged for 20 minutes. Brick and mortar poured into the second floor of the Highland school as the roof collapsed but some of the pupils occupying that floor already had been dismissed for lunch.

Virtually all the windows of the community high school in which were 750 pupils, were blown out, but it was believed none of the high school pupils were injured.

The lower grades of the Highland school had been dismissed for noon before the tornado struck, and as some of these have their classrooms on the second floor, this may have saved many lives.

From 30 to 35 beds in the city's two hospitals were rapidly filled with injured.

Only one telephone was operating out of Columbus and that was taken over by the officials and rescue workers as an emergency line.

BLIZZARD IN WEST
Durango, Colo., March 30.—(AP)—Twenty-five motorists, rescued by a rotary snow plow from 20-foot snow drifts which trapped them for 36 hours on Wolf Creek Pass, rested safely here today but a man who started on foot across the pass had not been heard from.

The missing man, George Willis of Buckeye, Ariz., started eastward over the pass yesterday while a two-day blizzard continued in full force.

The motorists in 19 automobiles followed the snow plow down the pass highway to Pagosa Springs, from where they traveled over open paved highway to Durango, 66 miles west.

Nourished by food carried to them on skis by state highway patrolmen, and warmed by campfires and automobile heaters, the motorists suffered only from weariness.

49 Inches of Snow
Two white women, a Negro woman, and two boys about 12 were reported to have been in the marooned party, stalled Monday on the western side of the pass summit. Also in the group was a barnstorming Negro basketball team from New York, the Harlem Hotshots.

During the height of the storm, general through southwest Colorado's San Juan country, 49 inches of snow fell within 12 hours on Wolf Creek Pass.

Heavy snow fell in Denver and sections of eastern Colorado today. One of the heaviest snowstorms of the winter swept eastern Montana. The Great Northern railroad suspended freight service in the Great Falls area and a Milwaukee passenger train was halted at Lewiston. Airplanes were grounded.

From four to six inches of snow was whipped by strong winds over eastern Wyoming.

Hunt Raider

Moline, Ill., March 30.—(AP)—Costly raids on poultry coops put farmers near the southeast limits of Moline on the alert today for a mysterious beast, the second reported in the area in recent months.

Fifty chickens were killed at Ernest Laverenz farm; 85 chicks, and some ducks, geese and turkeys at the Chester Pettifer farm; and 14 chickens, 10 bantams, two geese and three guineas at the Elmer Dopler farm.

Laverenz believed the raider a dog, while Dopler judged from tracks that it was a heavier animal, possibly a timber wolf.

In February, residents reported traces of what they believed was a mountain lion or other large cat in southwest Moline and in Black Hawk state park.

CEMETERY HOURS
Beginning April 1 the gates at Oakwood cemetery will be open daily from 7 A. M. to 8 P. M., Supt. Will Odenthal announced today.

CAMERA CLUB
The Rock River Camera club will meet tonight at 7 o'clock in the club rooms in the Telegraph building for another in the series of classes for instruction.

ROAD BOND ISSUE
The Harmon road bond issue amounting to $30,000 was sold yesterday afternoon at three per cent interest. The sum is to be expended during the summer in constructing improved gravel roads in Harmon township.

MINOR COLLISION
Cars driven by Ed Rose and George Wolford of this city figured in a minor collision last evening at the intersection of Hennepin avenue and First street. Both machines were damaged slightly but the occupants escaped uninjured.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED
The fire department was summoned to the William Kime residence, 401 Galena avenue, yesterday afternoon at 3:30 where a bonfire threatened the residence. The blaze was extinguished without damage to the property.

LENEX RITES
Funeral services for Mrs. Ellen Lenox who passed away early yesterday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Fred Hobbs, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the Hobbs residence. Rev. Howard P. Buxton will officiate and burial will be in the Palmyra cemetery.

CHILDREN'S CLINIC
A crippled children's clinic will be held starting at 9 A. M. tomorrow at the Elks club, Dr. S. P. Stackhouse said this morning, with Dr. Loneragan of Evanston hospital, orthopedic surgeon, the clinician. All parents of crippled children in Lee county are urged to send their children to the clinic.

IN CIRCUIT COURT
Mrs. Helen Stern has filed a divorce action in the circuit court charging Wallace Stern with extreme and repeated cruelty. In her bill she alleges that on June 18, 1937, her husband struck her in the mouth with a shoe, loosening several teeth and causing her extreme pain. The couple were married in Dixon Nov. 13, 1929, and in her bill Mrs. Stern appeals for alimony and the custody of three small children.

Former Dixon Man Attempts Suicide At Mount Morris
(Telegraph Special Service)
Mt. Morris, Mar. 30.—Harold Wolfe, formerly of Dixon, who has been living with his wife's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Nally of this place, attempted suicide by slashing his wrists late last night at the Nally home. Officer Harold Palmer was summoned to the Nally home, where he found Wolfe bleeding from the two jagged wounds on each wrist. Wolfe was taken to the county jail at Oregon and this morning was committed to the East Moline state hospital for treatment.

Accident at Rochelle Fatal to Chicago Man
B. Baumgard, 24, of Chicago was fatally injured when he was struck by a Northwestern freight train at the Main street crossing in Rochelle at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, his death following at the hospital there an hour afterwards. Death was caused by a skull fracture and broken neck. It was stated that the unfortunate man stepped from behind an eastbound train directly in front of the west-bound locomotive. An inquest will be held in Rochelle tomorrow morning.

Disillusioned
Pittsburg, Mo.—(AP)—C. Guy Ferguson, manager of a credit bureau that keeps tabs on 1,365,000 persons, is a little disillusioned about his fellow man's honesty.

"Sometimes one reads that only one per cent of the people in this world are dishonest," he said.

"That is a lot of hokey. Most people would steal anything that wasn't tied down if they weren't made artificially honest by policemen and the laws of society."

Science's Latest Gadget Comes To Rescue of Music Supervisors
St. Louis, March 30.—(AP)—One of science's latest gadgets has come to the rescue of the 500 music supervisors here; and for that matter, to the rescue of millions of school children studying music throughout the country.

It is a device which enables you to determine whether the tone you sing or blow or bow has the correct pitch. If not, it will tell you exactly how many hundredths of a semi-tone it is sharp or flat.

The mechanism, modestly housed in two little black boxes, is called a chromatic stroboscope. It was demonstrated—perhaps a little disconcertingly—before the music educators' national conference yesterday.

For about half the roomful of experts thought, when two tones were struck consecutively by Demonstrator Otto J. Kraushaar, that the second was higher than the first. But it wasn't—the pitch was exactly the same.

However, nobody was embarrassed. Kraushaar said the 16 first violins of a leading American symphony orchestra were tested with the stroboscope and it was found not one actually played a scale in tune.

BELVIDERE'S MAYOR ASKS FOR SOLDIERS

Belvidere, Ill., March 30.—(AP)—Mayor Perry Cratty wired Governor Horner today that the National Sewing Machine Co. strike situation was "out of control" and said he wanted martial law declared.

The mayor's wire made no specific mention of state troops but Mayor Cratty said that was his intent.

Directed to Chicago where Horner was participating in the primary election campaign, the mayor's telegram read:

"Situation here out of control due to National Sewing Machine company strike. Armed men walking streets."

While 200 A. F. of L. unionists continued to picket the plant in the 16 day old strike, another Belvidere firm, the Sanitary Scale Co., petitioned the circuit court for a writ of replevin to obtain material from the strike-bound sewing machine plant.

Sheriff Fred Smith said he would seek to enter the plant through the picket lines later today to serve the writ and obtain the materials the scale company said it needed to fill rush orders.

Deputies Return Stars
Cratty, who is employed as a foreman in the sewing machine plant and who was himself injured along with four others in a clash between workers, officers and pickets yesterday, said he appealed to the governor because many of the special deputies he had sworn in were turning in their badges.

"In some cases they have brothers or other relatives among the strikers and have said they would rather not serve," the mayor explained.

The Illinois department of labor acted today to end the strike.

Director Martin P. Durkin announced at Springfield he had sent Joseph Vincent to Belvidere to act as conciliator in the strike trouble.

Three unions, affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, called the strike last March 14 because, they said, President Raymond F. List refused to recognize them as bargaining agents after a national labor relations board election.

Forces Augmented
Yesterday strikers and peace officers battled for 15 minutes. Mayor Cratty suffered a fractured knuckle when he struck one or two men pummeling Police Chief August Stegeman. One of the five injured men, Harold Jensen, suffered a deep gash in his head and it required five stitches to close the wound.

Meanwhile, union officials announced they had drafted reinforcements for their picket lines. They said a 24-hour "watch" would be continued. Yesterday afternoon 250 pickets were on duty at the plant.

Sheriff Smith augmented his forces and Cratty estimated 150 special officers had been sworn with orders to remain on duty at the factory which normally employs 600 persons.

RIVAL GROUPS FIGHT
Laona, Wis., March 30.—(AP)—Several hundred members of the A. F. of L. Lumber and Timber Workers' union for the second time fought with CIO unionists at the entrance to the Cannon Lumber & Land company mill before going to work today.

Between 150 and 200 members of the Lumber and Sawmill Workers' union (CIO) and a number of women sympathizers lined both sides of the street leading to the Connor company plant, Sheriff Jesse Ramsdell said, and awaited the arrival of the 250 A. F. of L. workers.

The sheriff and 15 regular and specially-sworn deputies preceded the workers through the jeering lane of pickets. Ramsdell said he had warned the picketers not to block the middle of the road.

As soon as the main body of workbound millmen entered the pickets' lines, however, the CIO men closed in, the sheriff said, and a 20 minute battle which outlasted yesterday's got under way.

Fists, boots and clubs were used in the melee and rocks and mud were flung. The sheriff's forces and Laona's police chief, John Pierce, swung clubs to quell the fighting. The officers arrested eight pickets who were swinging the club ends of placards they carried.

One CIO man suffered a badly cut face when he was struck by a deputy's club. One deputy was scratched by a woman sympathizer he attempted to lead from the scene.

Applequist Outlines Principles, Purposes Of American Legion

Good Will Caravan Meeting Saturday At Legion Hall

Following is the text of the address delivered by Leonard J. Applequist, Illinois Department American Legion Commander, at the Good Will Caravan meeting held in Legion hall here Saturday evening.

When the Almighty created the universe in which our world is but an infinitesimal speck, there was no waste of effort in the matchless work he wrought. Everything had a definite purpose. There was no place in the grand scheme for anything which was useless.

In this manner the Creator laid down the golden axiom that the only true measure of the justification of anything was the value as its usefulness to the extent to which it served the fundamental aim of all existence, which is the glory of God.

Service, therefore, is the universal yardstick of usefulness which in turn is the justification of existence. It is today, in the ultimate analysis, the yardstick with which all of man's accomplishments are measured. History rates the individual in direct proportion to the good he contributed, which is but another way of saying, the service he rendered.

The progress of civilization has served only to throw more emphasis on service. In our modern world today, the yardstick of service, often identified by our engineers as efficiency, is the only measure which science applies to the inanimate machines which the ingenuity of man has developed. When we rate our marvelous motors, whether they be steam, electric or gasoline, on their horsepower, our dynamo on their kilowatts, our patrol ships, our streamlined trains, cars and planes on their miles per hour, we are but evaluating them in the capacities of service to us. Without this capacity to serve, they would be of no use to us.

The same yardstick of service applies as well to organization among men. It is the foundation on which all must be built, the basis of which all must rise or fall.

An organization that does not justify its existence by service cannot and will not long endure.

Service is the key to the tremendous success of the American Legion.

It is built on a foundation of unselfish service.

The underlying solid bed rock on which the American Legion has risen to such an unparalleled position of strength and influence in the affairs of our nation today, has been the common desire of its individual members to continue in time of peace to serve their God and country in time of war.

There has been the underlying force which has made possible the magnitude of the American Legion, which explains why its posts are the spark plugs of civic consciousness and activity in the communities, why it is able year after year to marshal million-mark memberships and why it is today, 19 years after its birth, sweeping forward to its all-time peaks in enrollment and prestige!

The ideals and purposes of the American Legion today are the ideals and purposes of the patriotic American men and women who 20 years ago marched side by side as comrades in the defense of their flag and country and of all mankind! The American Legion, therefore, belongs to all American World War veterans! Its labors for the peace and security of our country, for the promotion of a better citizenship for the care of the disabled, for the protection of the war widows and orphans, for the welfare of needy children, all are but an exemplification of the idealistic spirit which sustained through our fighting forces in 1917 and 1918 and inspired the military victory in the World War!

When the war was over these men who were to build the American Legion, as a permanent symbol of their continued devotion to God and country, came home thoroughly imbued with real spirit of American democracy. They gained from their war service a high appreciation of what it meant to be an American citizen. But more than this they brought back a new realization of the individual obligation which rests upon every citizen to insure the perpetuation of American institutions, established and maintained through the sacrifice of the blood of countless patriots.

They also brought with them a solemn realization of the sacred debt they owed to those of their comrades who laid down their lives on the field of battle.

Our comrades must not have died in vain!

The ideals for which they fought and died must be attained!

The peace and security of America must be safeguarded!

Those who bear the scars of battle must be cared for!

The loved ones of the hero dead must be provided for!

The bonds of friendship forged in training camps and under enemy fire must never be broken!

These, my friends, were the impelling motives which in 1919 led nearly a million veterans to associate themselves in the American Legion, for God and country for the following purposes so well expressed in the famous preamble to the Legion's constitution:

Preamble to the Constitution

In this manner these veterans translated the unselfish service they gave in war into future usefulness in time of peace!

In this manner the American Legion connects every veteran directly with those stirring times of his youth, when he embarked upon the greatest adventure of his life, that agony of service and sacrifice, the crusade for making the world safe for democracy. It re-dedicates him anew to that spirit of devotion by reminding one and all that:

"We served then and lived!"

"We live now and serve!"

Our New York convention laid down the greatest program in all our history, for unselfishly serving our God and country. That program again designated Americanism as the primary objective of the American Legion.

What is Americanism?

It has been defined as "an un-failing love of country, loyalty to its institutions and ideals, eagerness to defend it against all enemies, undivided allegiance to the flag, and a desire to secure the blessings of liberty to ourselves and posterity."

That my friends, sums up in a nut shell the exact meaning the Legion attaches to Americanism.

The first principle of our Americanism program is the protection of our American form of government against elements which would overthrow it by force or violence.

Our New York convention reaffirmed in unmistakable language the continuing opposition of the American Legion to Communism, Fascism, Nazism and all other forces and organizations that seek to destroy our free institutions of government.

With the same breath, our convention also resolved "that we condemn and will oppose all alien organizations which in any way promote loyalty to some other government or system, and we request that Congress investigate and make public its findings on organizations in the United States which are militantly serving Germany, Italy, Russia, Spain or any other power or system."

The American Legion further went on record in New York with the demand that congress enact legislation that will punish American citizens who advocate the overthrow of our government by force, fraud or violence and deport all aliens who so advocate such overthrow.

Advise Orderly Changes

In the American Legion we are not afraid of nor do we resist changes which are brought about in an orderly, constitutional way.

We shall fight to the last man, however, any attempt to substitute ballots for bullets.

The American Legion in New York also took a determined stand in defense of certain basic American rights and institutions, including particularly personal liberty, private property, religious freedom, home and family, contract rights and obligations, and adopted a resolution declaring that "these rights and institutions, which are the basis of Americanism as we use that word and that whatever is opposed to or seeks to undermine or destroy any of these, is un-American, and we condemn and will oppose it."

In this connection the American Legion went on record as viewing with deep concern the increasing disregard of fundamental legal rights and remedies in industrial disputes between organized capital and organized labor, and urged upon the public opinion of America the necessity of restoring immediately and maintaining the rights of personal liberty and private property in such disputes, as these rights are established in law and may and should be adjudicated by the courts of America.

The Americanism program of the Legion does not end, however, with its fight against un-American movements. It embraces training activities which probably are the most extensive of any organization in the world.

For the American Legion has one mission above all others, that mission is to help build a solid foundation for the future of America! That means training for good citizenship! That means character building!

From the very beginning the American Legion has supported the schools of America. We say that the guarantee of a free education to every child must be fulfilled, and that end we have made the economy in government must not be practiced at the expense of our schools. Through this vigilant stand the Legion kept many a classroom open during the depression. Each year the Legion sponsors American education week during which its posts through fitting programs seek to acquaint the public with the functions and needs of the schools.

The Legion has encouraged scholarship through its award of school medals. During 1932, a grand total of 9,084 school medal awards was made by Legion posts to outstanding pupils. In this manner the Legion places a prized premium upon study and application.

This year for the first time the Legion is sponsoring nationwide essay and oratorical contests for school children to encourage them to study and apply themselves. Inasmuch as the subjects of these essays and orations are of a patriotic nature, the contests serve to arouse a special interest in the study of the American Constitution.

Training Youth

In that rapidly growing junior organization, the Sons of the American Legion, the members of the Legion are training their own offspring to follow in the patriotic footsteps of the Legion. During 1932 this junior organization reached a membership of more than 100,000 and the number of its squadrons jumped to 2,566.

Similarly, to encourage character building, the Legion is a consistently loyal supporter of the Boy Scouts of America. Comparatively few persons are aware that the American Legion today is the second largest sponsor of the Boy Scouts, with each of more than 3,000 posts "fathering" one or more troops.

The Legion also reaches out through the great national pastime of baseball to help mould the boys of America into good citizens.

Through its nationwide youth baseball program the Legion trains annually more than 500,000 boys under the age of 17 years. It teaches these boys to play baseball, furnishing them with competent coaches, fine equipment and a nationwide tournament ending in a junior World Series. And while it is doing this it also teaches these boys the principles of fair play and good sportsmanship, believing that boys who learn to play ball in obedience to rules and good sportsmanship will play the game of life according to the laws and ethics that govern society.

The greatest menace in America today is not the force of subversive elements. It is the lethargy and indifference of the people of America toward public affairs. This is due primarily to lack of knowledge of the principles of government. Men and women have been too busy scrambling after the almighty dollar to give proper thought to their obligations and responsibilities as citizens. These elements of lethargy and indifference destroyed the ancient civilizations of Egypt, Greece and Rome. They are at work today in America. They may, in turn, destroy us unless the citizenry can be made to see government as something a part of itself and belonging to it.

This is exactly what the Legion working through the Boy's State activity is trying to make the boys of America see. It is trying to teach these future citizens that government is what they make it.

All Have Active Part

Every boy attending a Boy's State has an active part in the organizing of his mythical government and learns by doing just what the duties of citizenship are. In this way the Legion implants in a pleasant wholesome and unforgettable manner the principles of civil government into the minds of these boys. When they grow up to become actual citizens of America they will be interested in clean government because they will know all about it and will be looking forward jealously to participating in it. And they will be squaring their ideals with those of the American Legion.

The Boy's State was organized by the Illinois American Legion only three years ago. It has proven so successful that during 1932 eight States adopted this activity. I envision in the near future a chain of such camps extending from coast to coast, training the boys of America in the mechanics and principles of good government, enabling them to gain an intelligent comprehension of the manner in which our form of democracy operates, to safeguard, through them, the liberty and freedom which we so treasure!

The Americanism program of the Legion includes many other activities. Not the least among these is the Legion's aggressive campaign for traffic safety. The Legion stands mobilized today to the last man to fight the menace of "sudden death" whose appalling shadow is falling upon every community in our nation. During 1932 the Legion used the talking screen with great effect in its intensive drive against carelessness which breeds accidents. More than a million men, women and children were the guests of Legion posts during the year at special showings of the Legion's "compelling safety" films entitled "Merita" and "The Other Fellow." So great was the value of these two talks in educating the public to be safety-conscious, that the Legion has produced two new safety films, entitled "We Walkers" and "Night Driving" for its campaign during 1933.

Disaster relief is another important Americanism activity of the Legion. The Legion is admirably fitted for this work. Its members received their training in the greatest public emergency in the nation's history—the World War. They have not forgotten that training. They have built their emergency relief organization on that training. More than one hundred times the disaster struck. Whether it be flood, fire, tornado or earthquake, thousands of Legion posts now are organized to mobilize at a moment's notice to save lives, protect property and preserve law and order.

The record-breaking flood in the Ohio valley during January, 1937, tested the Legion's disaster relief organization to the utmost and found it not wanting. In that great emergency 50,000 Legionnaires responded as trained "minute men" of peace for active hospital service along the long waterfront, while hundreds of thousands of the comrades almost overnight created a vast service of supplies organization that kept flowing to the areas of distress all the necessities for alleviating human suffering. A total of 2,718 posts reported to Legion headquarters that they collected $253,486 for the Red Cross flood fund; 5,625 tons of food, 3,025 tons of clothing, many hundreds of tons of bedding, innumerable boats, portable radios, flashlights and other vital supplies. There were probably as many more posts that failed to make a report on what they did.

Meet Other Emergencies

To a lesser scale hundreds of Legion posts throughout the United States daily meet public needs and minor emergencies. Go from one end of this country to the other and in virtually every city, town and village you will find unselfish contributions made by the American Legion to community life. You will find swimming pools, playgrounds, community houses, libraries, public parks, ambulances, hospital clinics, drinking fountains, school lunch rooms, city clean-up campaigns and countless other public benefactors of the Legion. These all come under the community service of the Americanism program. We of the Legion know that when we work for the betterment of our community we work for the betterment of the American Legion.

Next to the duty we owe our country, we hold that our first obligation belongs to the war disabled. The American Legion always has contended and always will insist that the proper care of those who wear the scars of battle is a sacred obligation upon the national government and not the province of private charity. The Legion organized its national rehabilitation service to aid all veterans, irrespective of whether they belonged to the Legion or not in their claims for hospitalization and compensation. This service the Legion has performed without the cost of one penny to any veteran. Through its legislative efforts, the Legion was responsible for the construction of the many fine government hospitals and the enactment of legislation providing free hospitalization for all veterans today, as well as other benefits.

The American Legion always has fought for the protection of the widows and orphans of the World War and always will continue to do so as a sacred obligation to its comrades who made the supreme sacrifice on the altar of patriotism. We request and shall fight for until we get it, adequate government provisions for the widows and orphans of World War veterans on the same basis as the government cared for the widows and orphans of the veterans of every other war in which this country has engaged.

Today as the steady tramp of Mars toward another World War is the ominous obligato to the maddest armament race ever conceived by man the thoughts of our citizens turn anxiously to the preservation of the blessings of peace.

The American Legion, which knows better than all others the horrors of war by a unanimous, thundering vote at New York adopted a definite, practical program for preserving both the peace and the security of America. It is a program that no patriotic American can afford not to support.

This peace program of the American Legion embodies three principles which World War veterans are convinced are vital to the peace and safety of our nation. These are:

1—A universal service act providing by law for "equal service for all, including capital, industry and manpower, and special privileges and profits for none" in time of war.

2—An adequate army and navy geared to today's needs, for defensive purposes only and not for aggression.

3—A proper, neutrality policy rigidly enforced, to the end that this country will not be drawn into the international disputes of other nations.

Although the American Legion definitely went on record as opposing any alliances that might entangle us in foreign affairs, it did append this general statement of policy:

"Reaffirming our belief in and allegiance to the preamble to our Constitution, devotion to the Constitution of the United States and our established institutions, and reaffirming our fixed determination of American neutrality, we yet believe that the American Legion, in continued loyalty to our purpose to promote peace and good will on earth has a real duty to continue its work for world peace, to combat propaganda of international hate, and thus aid in averting the tragedy of war and making permanent the blessings of peace.

Helping Men Over 40

For 1938 the American Legion has pledged itself to another major unselfish task. That is the fight for the economic welfare of the man over 40 years of age. Our New York convention decreed that employment is to be a primary program of the Legion, second only to rehabilitation. To this end the convention authorized and provided adequate finances for a nationwide campaign to be headed by the American Legion, with the co-operation of industrial, labor and civic organizations, for the re-employment in industry of men over 40. The Legion will fight with all its splendid strength against the age bar system in industry which decrees that a man be scrapped when he passes the age of forty. The Legion is preparing a booklet which it will present to every employer in the nation showing that the average man of veterans' age has reduced the very height of his usefulness. That he has attained maturity in judgment and responsibility. That his spirit has been enriched by experience and knowledge. That the tempering of his muscles and intellect make up for his lack of youthful exuberance and that industry needs the steady hand of loyal veterans within its employee groups because while some elements of our population may be ready to listen to radical ideas, the veteran will have none of them! I am happy to report that this Legion campaign already is bearing some fruit and that several large corporations have indicated they have accepted this Legion point of view and have changed their employment policies accordingly.

With our own funds we maintain a child welfare service which caused one president of the United States to declare that the American Legion and its auxiliary constitute the greatest child-caring organization in the United States. During 1937, I am proud to report, we expended the known total of $3,242,756.53 in direct financial aid to 381,274 needy children. The bulk of this money went for food, clothing and medical treatment. For 1938 the American Legion has adopted the most progressive set of child welfare mandates in its history. It will continue its material aid program and at the same time labor for the expansion and improved administration of all the child welfare provisions of the social security act. To this end, for the first time in its history, the Legion has undertaken a school of instruction at national headquarters for all department child welfare chairmen.

The promotion of law and order is one of the fundamental principles of the Legion. This year the Legion is pledged to a determined attack upon the problem of juvenile delinquency which is the root of all crime. At the same time the Legion will continue its efforts to bring about the enactment by all states of the four model acts for crime control drafted by the international commission on crime.

CHARGE RUSSIAN SCIENTISTS WITH CRIMINAL DOINGS

Find Work of Northern Sea Route To Be Unsatisfactory

MOSCOW, March 30—(AP)—The government charges that "criminal, anti-Soviet activity of wreckers" was found in the Northern Sea Route administration which is headed by Dr. Otto Schmidt, who directed last summer's polar flights to America and polar observations by four Russian scientists.

Without naming Dr. Schmidt, the council of the people's commissars, which is equivalent to the cabinet, adopted a resolution severely blaming the Sea Route administration for the perilous position of Soviet ice breakers and ships drifting helplessly in the Arctic ice.

The resolution found the work of the Northern Sea Route in 1937 "unsatisfactory" and called for a detailed report by April 15.

The specific criticism dealt with the fact that almost the entire ice breaker fleet, and nearly half of the freighters that ply the northern route and were caught in the ice last autumn, are "exposed to imminent danger."

Meanwhile, it was learned that U. Kulumbetoff, former president of Kazakhstan, and 18 others were shot after a secret trial on charges of treason paralleling those for which 18 confessed conspirators were shot in Moscow.

The trial at Alma Ata, which ran from March 6 to March 12 simultaneously with the public mass trial in Moscow, was reported in a terse communique in the provincial newspaper Kazakhstan Pravda reaching the capital today.

Kulumbetoff was accused of attempting to split off his middle Asiatic republic from the Soviet and make it a colony of an unnamed country.

In winter Yosemite National Park offers two brands of climate, side by side. The south side of the Yosemite valley, shaded by towering cliffs, is many degrees cooler than the opposite side where abundant sunshine makes the temperature mild enough for mid-day exercise without wraps.

A new process has been developed in Germany for keeping fish fresh for a longer time. As soon as possible after landing, the cleaned fish are soaked in a highly diluted solution of 30 per cent hydrogen peroxide and immediately thereafter packed in ice in the shipping containers.

The marines are the oldest branch of the U. S. armed service, having been established by Congress in 1775.

WHEN RAY WINTERS signed off (above) he had a long, hard day behind him. Ray has thought a lot about which cigarette best fits in with the exacting, nerve-and-energy-consuming work he does. "Camels are distinctly different from other cigarettes," is his verdict. "Camels agree with me. In all the ten years I've been enjoying them, I've never known Camels to make my throat feel scratchy. Or my nerves ragged. That speaks pretty well for Camel's mildness, doesn't it?"

And many millions of other smokers find what they want in Camels, too.

MORE and more experienced smokers are concluding: "Camel is the cigarette that agrees with me." If you are not now smoking Camels, try them. Look for the difference between Camels and other cigarettes. Find out what it means to enjoy Camel's costlier tobaccos.

BOWLING is one of Ray Winters' pastimes. He's pretty good at it, too. "Put me down as a chap who certainly appreciates Camels when I'm tired," Ray says. "I get a 'lift' with a Camel."

Brain Twizzlers

By

PROF. J. D. FLINT

Late one night a patrol boat of the coast guard was ordered to overtake a vessel which was suspected of carrying contraband goods and to go aboard it for inspection. When they looked up the specifications of that particular vessel they found that it had a top speed of 20 miles per hour and, of course, the boat would undoubtedly be under full speed.

The coast guard boat had a top speed of twenty-five miles per hour and at the time they set out the smuggler had a lead of thirty miles. At the same time the coast guard set out an airship was ordered to take off and spot the smuggler for them. The airship spotted the suspected ship and circled overhead, flew back and forth from one ship to the other, giving information until the coast guard came upon the scene. For a while the smuggler showed signs of resistance but when several shots had been fired across her bow she hove to and allowed the officers to inspect her. They found the goods and placed the crew under arrest. The pilots of the airship, having flown consistently at 90 m. p. h., checked their mileage and decided they needed gas from the show. How far had they flown?

What the "High-Cut" Armhole

DOES FOR

An added refinement of the British Lounge Model* this season is the "High-Cut" armhole. This is a custom detail that preserves the trim appearance of the upper part of the jacket for the life of the suit. Because the shoulders and chest are needle-hinged around the armhole, the "High-Cut" design keeps the collar, lapels and shoulders in place when the arms are raised or moved about. Incidentally, this armhole does not bind—is completely comfortable.

The "High-Cut" armhole is one of many design elements that contribute to the flattering illusions created by the British Lounge Model*—the illusion of added height, of slenderness at the hips and depth of chest.

ADVICE FROM THE CURBSTONE

Any business man can get advice from the curbstone about how to run his business.

That advice usually is worth about the sum the business man pays for it.

We now look upon the spectacle of a great industry, the automobile industry, getting curbstone advice from the White House. It also probably is worth about the sum the industry pays for it—or less. In some instances, White House advice has proved costly.

Some of us are wont to give advice about public affairs in which we have not had great or long experience, but when we do that, we are disposed to stay by the time tried rules. Two and two always make four and we can stand by that. There is a law of diminishing returns, and we can stand by that. There is the rule that frightened capital always behaves in about the same manner. We can stand by that.

Most of us who have to stick by the rules tried and true would hesitate about telling the automobile industry how to proceed, when we know that the motor manufacturers were instrumental in pulling us out of two depressions, as far as we got out of them.

It has the appearance of being just plain nose when the occupant of the White House undertakes to tell the motor industry about financing sales. What are the known business qualifications of the president? They are the spending of money accumulated by his ancestors, the loading of a huge debt upon the state of New York during the four years he was governor, and the burdening of the people of the United States with 16 billion dollars of debts, and nobody knows how much more. That may be the way to the more abundant life, but it hardly qualifies one for the job of minding the business of men who have demonstrated capacity to build up great industries and to pull the country out of depressions.

Financing sales of automobiles is something that is managed according to the demands of the trade and the status of credit. It seems that we must have a rule for everything, so the president wanted a rule, even though it might be the rule already in effect for the most part.

David Lawrence writes:

"In other words, the president's action would appear to be deflationary, though doubtless he did not intend it as such. The question really remains: What business is it of the president or anybody else in government whether a citizen wants to buy an automobile on credit terms? It's his own wages that are involved and he ought to be free to use his pay for whatever he pleases.

"So far as installment selling is concerned, the federal government has a good deal to explain. It permits loans on houses to run twenty years and with a down payment of only 10 per cent. It sells electric appliances to rural folks for periods of five and ten years, and certainly agricultural income is far from stable.

That is a pertinent question: What business is it of the president or anybody else in government whether a citizen wants to buy an automobile on credit terms?

LICENSING OF FIREARMS

Members of the national house of representatives are entertaining a proposal to license and register all firearms such as revolvers, pistols, shotguns and rifles. The bill, if enacted into law, would require that within six months thereafter, every person owning such a weapon should register it, without fee, with the local collector of internal revenue. In case the gun changes hands later, the new owner must likewise register with the collector of internal revenue, and furnish his fingerprints.

This proposed legislation is supplementary to the national firearms act which requires registration of such lethal weapons as machine guns, submachine guns, sawed-off shotguns and short-barreled rifles, as well as silencers.

Both pieces of legislation are an attempt at control of firearms, rather than complete prohibition, which has been suggested by more than one legislator. The principal objection to complete prohibition of the ownership of firearms, of course, is that there still is some use for them. They are useful in destruction of predatory animals, and huntsmen would be deprived of their sports.

A secondary objection, no less valid than the first, is that where firearms are available, dangerous characters will have them even if ownership is prohibited by law. A man intent upon robbery, or intending to commit murder, probably will not be dissuaded from his illegal purpose merely because possession of a weapon is against the law.

So the law now under examination in congress would attempt, in so far as possible, to furnish information as to where the guns are, and to keep a record as to where they go when they are sold. The finger print provided for would tend to provide a more perfect identification of purchasers of second hand weapons, and fingerprints remain the same, alias or no alias. Supporters of the measure say that 70 per cent of the murders committed in this country are accomplished with firearms.

SCIENCE MAKES UP FOR MAN'S MISTAKES

For some time the prophets of doom have been shouting their say about our fast-vanishing soil which, it seems, is being snatched from under the very soles of our shoes by such things as dust storms and erosion. The situation is indeed something to view with alarm and the worrying is time well spent.

But now scientists come forth with the news that within 25 years the average man may be getting his food from "soil-less farms." Such farms would employ chemical tanks, in which food plants show phenomenal growth.

With the coming of soil-less farms, it won't make any difference whether we're living on bedrock or not. The crops will still be raised. Necessity for the annual plowing will be eliminated, however, and the land can be given a new cover of grass and trees. Dust storms and serious erosion can't occur where the earth is thus protected.

Speaking before the New York Railroad Club, G. Edward Pendray, science writer and past president of the American Rocket Society told also of the possibility of a world in which men will wear clothes of fireproof artificial fabrics made from cellulose or spun glass and occupy houses lighted, heated, cooled, humidified, and air-cleaned automatically the year round by electricity.

All these things may come about by 1963, according to Mr. Pendray's summary of the research activities now coming on in laboratories throughout the country.

There are more wonders. By 1963 the average man's library may consist of small spools of film—each representing a complete book—which will be read with the aid of a projection machine smaller than a typewriter. By that time scientists will probably be smashing the atom to smithereens, thus opening the way to miracles scarcely imagined today.

Weather reports will be based on rocket soundings of the upper atmosphere and there will be attempts to shoot an automatically controlled rocket carrying mail and express across the Atlantic.

There is of course the very good chance that man won't witness all these wonders within even 250 years. But the fact remains that science has kept pretty well on top of things and gives evidence of continuing to be able to make up for such mistakes as America's waste of her natural resources.

Meantime, however, loud condemnation of such abuse by the ordinary citizen is well in order and may be almost as valuable as the more constructive contributions on the part of science.

The Boxwood Barrier

By BLANCHE SMITH FERGUSON

The story so far: Judith Goodloe has the code of an old Maryland family to live up to. Reuben Oliver has wealth, and the ethics of his own making. Desperately loving Judith, Reuben proposes to her when the Goodloe finances collapse. Gary Brent, the man Judith loves, has left her. Marriage to Reuben means keeping the pleasant life she has always known, so Judith accepts.

CHAPTER XIII Strangers to Each Other

They were engaged to be married. They had been engaged an hour, these two who were almost strangers. They had much to say to each other, yet they said only that which could not remain unsaid. All the dear foolish incoherencies, the breathless murmurs, the divinely silly personalities, were unuttered. If their hour was less than perfect neither seemed to notice. They were at peace, sitting on the grass in the shade of the maple.

From under long lashes, Judith looked critically at her future husband—at his lean brown hands, his leaf-brown eyes with inexhaustible wells of strength behind them, at his firm mouth with its elusive hint of gentleness—She wondered why she had ever thought him amusing.

"He is wise," she decided, "but he is guileless too. He is being cheated—" She said with brutal frankness: "I don't love you—you know that."

"Why—" he came back from some far country, "yes, I know it." He wondered how he could accept it so calmly.

"I—I really don't know you," half apologetically.

"Perhaps, when you do—" "There is someone else," doggedly.

Silence. A hawk flew over the garden. It cast a dark shadow.

"Who?"

But he knew before she answered that it was Gary Brent. He reflected that he should not dislike Gary, since to his idiosyncrasy he would owe his life. The concealed ass! The dunce!

"I guess most girls imagine themselves in love with Brent. He has the thing women fall for—small talk and flattery. You'll get over it," gruffly.

"I'm afraid I won't. So if you want to change your mind—" "Nonsense!" Did he want to stop the sun from shining? Did he want to shut all beauty from his life? He started to argue with her to convince himself—"You'll be much better off with me. Brent will never amount to anything—you'll see."

"That wouldn't matter, if he loved me," simply.

If anyone had told him in the old days that he would want to marry a girl who did not love him!

A girl who was openly pining for someone else. Where was his common sense? Where was his self-respect?

"You're lily-livered."

"You're really being foolish," she persisted. "You're being a poor business man too—taking us on is going to be frightfully expensive."

He turned to smile at her whimsically. "I've always had to pay pretty well in one way or another, for everything I ever got." He broke off a tiny sprig of the boxwood.

It gave out a spick order between his fingers. "Life is like that—my life. There's always been a price."

She reflected watching him that so far she had never been called upon to pay for anything. She reached out and took his hand.

His fingers closed over hers. The spring of box lay warm between their palms—a fragrant symbol. He wanted to tell her that all the kingdoms of the world would not hedge—that was triumph. She had saved herself from being one of those futile, boring women, who die by inches, crying for a happiness that has eluded them. She loathed that type of woman. Married to Reuben Oliver she would be a busy person. Important. Beloved. Unconsciously she held her head higher.

That evening, in Gran's own bedroom she confided the news to her. Casually, gayly, she confided it.

"Wish me happiness, darling and get ready to go shopping."

Mrs. Goodloe, at her desk, doggedly adding up a long column of figures, as though in the end she could beat them down, smiled absently at the girl from harried eyes. "Wait—just a second, Judy."

Fourteen thousand and twenty-nine plus six per cent—" "

Playing a Part

With a sweeping hand, Judith pushed the paper aside. Captured the pencil. "Didn't I tell you to wish me happiness, young woman?"

Where are your manners? I'm going to marry Reuben Oliver."

For the first time in all the years old Mrs. Goodloe failed to meet a situation. She sat staring a long moment, then collapsed in her chair repeating in parrot fashion: "Going to marry Reuben—"

She was still laughing shrilly and crying feebly, when, an hour later, Judith gave her a sedative, tucked her in bed and put out the light. When she closed the door softly her grandmother was demanding, over and over, to know which was preferable — to be hanged for a crime one did not commit or to get a reprieve one did not want?

Judith didn't know the answer. In the morning Amanda was quite herself.

The Goodloe-Oliver engagement was a nine days wonder.

"Mrs. John Walleston Goodloe announces the engagement of her granddaughter—"

A choice morsel of news. A young beauty of famous family about whom romance hovered with a capital R, was not to marry Gary Brent after all, but Reuben Oliver, a man from nowhere, who had literally pulled himself up by his bootstraps and whose doubtful millions had grown quickly and by devious ways.

Almost immediately Goodloe's choice took on new life. Gay house parties—one after the other. Guests arriving at all hours, departing at all hours. Reuben's shining cars taking them thither and yon—to the city, to shops, to theatres, to Gibson Island where his yacht waited to steam down the Chesapeake. The nights—great golden moon, shimmering sheet of water—were made for romance, music, laughter and through them all danced Judith—a stranger.

Not the old reckless, gipsying, unthinking Judith, but a poised, careful person, an actress who had stepped into the role and was consciously bending all her efforts to give a good performance—that of happy fiancée to an important man.

Gary, the old longing, were pushed into the background. All day and far into the night there was never a minute in which to think. She gave such a clever imitation of perfect happiness that even Reuben was deceived.

"She's forgotten Brent already," he gloated, "she loves me."

And that was as it should be. He felt not the slightest inferiority where Gary was concerned. He was a better match for Judith than Gary Brent with his tumble-down old house his mouldy furniture, his lack of ambition—Gary accepted his poverty with the same smiling good nature with which he accepted invitations. "I'm a go-getter—a better man."

Answer to Question No. 1

1. Present day art tests measure only artistic appreciation, not artistic ability, although 90 per cent of those who score high on artistic appreciation make good grades in art classes. Artistic talent, like all talents, is to a large extent inherited, but it is made up of many separate elements—some carried by one parent, some by the other—so that it is only when they all become combined in high degree in one individual that the result blossoms out in real artistic ability. Your high school class might well study the ancestry of say 10 famous artists in cyclopedia.

Join the TRAITSCOUTS and plot the social competence of six families you know by finding two good traits, two bad and two mixed.

Answer to Question No. 2

2. Modern business shows that many women make good minor executives—better than men in many positions. A woman like Mrs. Patterson makes a splendid top executive but only a few women in history have made great executive leaders. Frankly, nobody knows why. There are a lot of theories—that they have not had opportunity, that they must bear and rear children, that they do not have the leadership urge, that women are nearer the human average in abilities and rarely have supreme ability—all these are unproved theories. All we know is that few supreme executives and leaders are women but many very able executives are women.

Answer to Question No. 3

3. No. Nothing is more important in order to be a good citizen than to read the newspapers—sports, politics, murders, business, etc. They should be read regularly and systematically. No use being "educated" unless you know what to do with your education, and no one can be an effective, educated citizen unless he knows what is going on, and the only way to find out is to read the newspapers.

CHART REVEALS SPEED AIR MAIL SERVES PUBLIC

Postmaster George Fruin has completed an interesting chart showing the air mail service for patrons of the Dixon postoffice.

An air mail letter posted in the Dixon postoffice at or before 12 o'clock noon will arrive in any of the following cities as follows:

San Francisco, Calif., at 9:14 a. m., the next day.

Los Angeles, Calif., at 9:05 a. m., the next day.

Seattle, Wash., at 11:03 a. m., the next day.

Denver, Colo., at 3:45 a. m., the next day.

Salt Lake City, Utah, at 5:49 a. m., the next day.

New York, N. Y., at 5:50 a. m., the next day.

Miami, Fla., at 7:50 a. m., the next day.

Air mail service to and from other cities may now be used as a substantial saving in time.

Air mail service now reaches practically every civilized country of the world, with a comparative saving in time and at a surprisingly low cost.

An air mail letter will reach its destination almost anywhere in the United States, in one-third of the time required by train and the necessary postage, is but six cents per ounce.

In 20 years, or since the origin of the air mail service in this country, the number of miles travelled by mail planes has increased from 218 to nearly 200,000 miles daily.

May 15 to 21 has been designated as "National Air Mail week," and Postmaster Fruin is acquainting the patrons of the Dixon postoffice with the advantages of Air Mail and urging its more liberal patronage.

Women's Relief Corps Enjoys Regular Meet

The Women's Relief Corps served a delicious one and three lunch Monday afternoon before the regular meeting. About 90 ladies were present. The committee in charge deserves a great deal of credit. After the lunch a splendid program was enjoyed. The first number was an accordion solo by Eugene Leggett who responded with an encore. The ladies quartet composed of Mrs. Aumen, Mrs. Edwards, Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. Potter with Mrs. Jacobson at the piano, gave two numbers which were very much appreciated. Mrs. Buxton gave a review of the book "The Journalist's Wife."

Mrs. Jona Van announced that a short business session would be held following the program. A good number of members remained for the meeting. An excellent amount of relief was reported given to needy families. The relief committee reported on the meeting held at the home of Mrs. White. Five nice large couch covers were reported finished and several chair backs and cushions completed. These will be sent to the Veterans hospital in Chicago.

Mrs. Erman Miller At a Chilli Supper

Members of the Twentieth Century Literary club were enjoyably entertained Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Erman Miller. The program consisted of a comprehensive review of the fine entertainment given by Cornelia Otis Skinner at Sterling recently by Mrs. Gordon Bennett, and an enlightening paper on Madam Chiang-Kai-Shek, first lady of China and a graduate of Wellesley, who has given great impetus to the new life movement in China and who plans much of the strategy of the Chinese army, of which her husband is commander-in-chief. At the conclusion of the program the hostess served tasty refreshments.

Chatham, Pa., March 30.—(AP)—Ten men in their 70's were rescued today from a hospital ward when flames swept through a portion of the Maccabee home for the aged.

A. P. Daley of Chicago is in critical condition, physicians said, because the shock of the fire aggravated a heart condition. Harry Whitby, 65, of Peoria, Ill., was overcome by smoke when he tried to use a fire extinguisher.

Mrs. Zora Lukes, matron of the home, said she believed the fire started in an auxiliary lighting plant in the basement.

State Hospital

By G. E. Phillips

Dr. H. B. Fitzjerald, Hugh Fox and Henry Hambrick were among those attending a conference of Whiteside county Democrats at Sterling Sunday afternoon.

Charles Johnson, a resident of Cottage A-8, has been named Scout leader for Troop 59, Dixon State Hospital.

Latest reports from J. Henry Wilson now on leave of absence, are that his condition is not as favorable as when last reported. The play hour that was conducted so successfully last summer for the residents of Cottage A-8 by the recreation department will be resumed with the advent of warm weather.

A special show demonstrating the activities of the recreation department is planned for Thursday evening, it is announced.

Tony Guzzardo and Hugh Fox have been transferred from the nursing division to the mechanical division and have assumed charge of the coal detail with Roy Swope transferred to the power house.

Norval and Mrs. Baker left for a short visit to their home early Tuesday.

The patients of the A, B and C sides were made most happy this week by generous gifts of magazines by a number of Dixon citizens.

It seems like old times again to see the smiling face of Martha Steele about the grounds again. Mrs. Steele has been off duty these many weeks recovering from an injury.

We saw Ralph Dowd and Franklin Pierce both formerly employed here on the grounds Sunday.

Lace is a delicate openwork fabric or network of ornamental nature. It gets its name from the Latin laqueus, like the early English laces and the French laces.

HARRIS SEES FASTEST LOOP RACE IN YEARS

Senators Question the Mark of League; His Opinion

Orlando, Fla., March 30—(AP)—Let Stanley (Bucky) Harris tell about this approaching American League baseball race. Stanley is the still young and handsome manager of the left-hand Washington Senators, and he has a story to tell.

"Here," said Bucky, making himself comfortable. "I have a much better ball club than I had last year, when we finished sixth. That's a cinch, because we now have Zeke Bonura on first base. He drove in 100 runs for the White Sox last year, while Joe Kuhel was knocking in 61 for us."

"All right. So you ask me do I think we can climb out of sixth place, being as we now have Bonura. All I can answer is: Will you kindly look over those five teams that finished ahead of us last year and try to pick out the one we're going to displace."

"This American League right now is the toughest I've seen in my experience. The Yankees naturally are favorites. Then, there is Detroit, Chicago, Cleveland and Boston Red Sox, all of whom finished ahead of us. The least thing could make a difference of three or four places in any of these clubs."

"Anything Can Happen"

"It's so close, in my opinion, that an injury to anyone of the Yankee regulars, like Gehrig, DiMaggio and D'Maggio, could throw them out of first place."

"If we're going to gain a notch, supposedly we'll have to do it at the expense of the Boston Red Sox. Have you seen that club, All right, then you know it's a good one. All Joe Cronin needs is for one or two of his young pitchers to come through and he'll be right up there in the fight. And he's got five who answer that description."

"So where does that put us? I don't know, honestly. I wouldn't be surprised if we finish second—or sixth again. I've got two young southpaw pitchers, Ken Chase and Joe Kraskauskas. Both have all the stuff in the world, but both are wild as hares."

"We've got the hitting, plenty of it. There's enough of it in fact that Cecil Travis who hit .344 last season is in the sixth place in my batting order. Our fielding is pretty good too. It's just a case of finding some pictures to go with Wes Ferrell, Monte Weaver and Jim Densons."

"Simmons Is Surprise"

"The most pleasant surprise I've had is Al Simmons. You know, we asked waivers on him during the winter and nobody wanted him. I'm glad now that nobody did. It must have hurt Al's pride, because he got himself in the best shape in years and is hitting the ball almost like he did in the old days."

"Another funny thing. This kid Jimmy Wascell practically had beaten Kuhel out of his first batting job before we traded Joe to the White Sox. He had been hitting the ball out of sight—seven home runs in five games. I'm going to keep him on the squad, but he's another left-hand hitter like all the others. Funny how one team will start getting left-handers and can't get anything else, isn't it?"

"So far in the 27-day course of the A. B. C. the publicized teams have

37th ANNUAL DOG SHOW WILL OPEN SATURDAY

Sponsored By International Kennel Club, Chicago

Chicago, March 30.—Dog fanciers from the four corners of the country will meet in Chicago this week as exhibitors and visitors at the 37th annual Chicago Dog Show which will open in the International Amphitheatre at the Chicago Stock Yards next Saturday morning.

The show will be in progress from 10 A. M. until 10 P. M. Saturday and Sunday April 2 and 3. It will be sponsored by the International Kennel Club of Chicago, of which Arthur G. Leonard is the chairman. Mr. Leonard is chairman of the board and a founder of the International Live Stock Exposition.

Entries, which closed last week, total over 1200 dogs which are listed by exhibitors from 25 states and Canada. They will be coming from such widely separate parts of the country as Massachusetts and California, Minnesota and Alabama.

Strong Midwest Showing
Many of the dogs will be exhibited by breeders and owners in the Midwest. According to Manager C. E. Harrison, there are numerous nominations from Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa which will compete here with representatives of leading kennels in more distant parts of the country.

It is estimated that 7,200 square feet of bench space will be required to exhibit all of the dogs that will be displayed. The judging will take place in the central coliseum of the International Amphitheatre. The seating accommodations for 7,500 people will be free to the public.

Full Program Planned
The six judging rings of the main arena will be occupied at all times with the judging of the various breeds from the opening to the closing of the show on both days. Obedience test classes, one of the interesting features of the show, will be judged Saturday and Sunday afternoons. High-light breeds scheduled for Sunday judging are the Setters, Beagles, Fox Terriers, Sealyham Terriers, German Shepherd Dogs, Dachshunds, Chows, Doberman Pinschers, and Springer Spaniels. All other breeds will be judged on Saturday.

The winners of the various group classes will be selected on Sunday evening, and the final event of the show will be the naming of the best dog over all breeds, which will be chosen by Mrs. F. Hartley Dodge, of Madison, New Jersey.

STREET FEELS BROWNS MIGHT WORRY RIVALS

San Antonio, Tex., March 30—(AP)—Manager Charles (Gabby) Street, an imaginative person, can't quite stretch his vision to actually seeing his St. Louis Browns in the first division, but he points at an explosive "paper" lineup and reminds what could happen.

Street, who has had 38 years in baseball, has some experiments on tap that could convert the 1937 cellarites into 1938's most troublesome line.

"Predictions aren't in my line," quoth Street, new guardian angel of a team that never has won a pennant, "but I'm bold enough to say we'll be one helluva sight better than we were last year."

One of the veteran catcher's many gnarled fingers pointed to his tentative opening day lineup of eight gentles who clubbed out a composite average of .312 for 1937.

Street to Experiment
Foremost in Street's sack of experiments will be a shift of young Billy Sullivan, Gabby's prize catcher, up to the second slot in his hitting lineup.

"Great pull hitter—that boy. I'll lead off with Colonel Buster Mills, very fast, and then have Sullivan up there to send him around with his pull hitting. This boy Sullivan is smart—a baseball student. He's going to be great—like his dad."

Street was worried because there wasn't one really weak hitter in this lineup.

"It's a problem," he murmured. "It means my 'second cleanup,' down in eighth position, will have his purpose defeated. He'll be good enough to be purposely passed to get to our pitchers!"

Gabby won't foolin'. His Browns were out there smashing out 20 hits for 32 bases and an 18-3 win over a tough Tulsa team of the Texas league.

IN SPRING TRAINING CAMPS

Activities of Major League Teams in the South and West Prior to Opening of Baseball Season

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Clearwater, Fla.—It may or may not be the result of Larry MacPhail's bonus system, but the Brooklyn Dodgers are doing some smart fielding. The infield pulled three double plays against Detroit yesterday and that used to be a "par" for a long road trip.

Tampa, Fla.—Although Ray (Peaches) Davis has not had much on the ball in training, Manager Bill McKeechie of the Cincinnati Reds declared he can "help" us more than most people think. "Deacon Bill" further explained, "if he shows just a little improvement over last season, he'll prove a big help to our pitching situation."

St. Petersburg, Fla.—Manager Frankie Frisch of the St. Louis Cardinals seems to like the work of Don Gutteridge at shortstop. "Gutteridge has been erratic," Frisch said, "but he'll continue there."

Baton Rouge, La.—Bill Terry's answer to recent criticisms of National League baseball was two hours of "skull" practice for his New York Giants. "That's my answer," he said, adding, "a man who can bust up a ball game with a hit is a great asset, but he is worth twice as much if he also can save a game by being a fine defensive player."

Clearwater, Fla.—The New York Yankees are expecting a lot from Ivy Paul Andrews, if he continues his good flinging in the exhibition games between here and New York. Joe McCarthy says he looks for Andrews to do a lot of first-class relief work.

Bradenton, Fla.—Johnny Nigeling, 32-year-old rookie hurler of the Boston Bees, is threatening to achieve the same fame won by last year's young oldsters, Lou Fette and Jim Turner. Johnny, up from Newark, hurled six shutout innings against Louisville yesterday.

San Antonio, Tex.—Tom Carey, St. Louis Browns infielder, was ready to join the Hollywood Pacific coast league club today. Carey had balked at being optioned to the California club but decided, "as long as I don't lose any money I might just as well go."

Biloxi, Miss.—Johnny Humphries, Cleveland Indians' rookie pitcher, has made quite an impression on at least one rival manager. Connie

THOMAS ENTERS RING AS DOUBLE FOR SCHMELING

Louis To Imagine He's Fighting Maxie In Return Bout

Chicago, March 30—(AP)—Swing man Harry Thomas is going to serve as a double for the only man ever to stop him—Max Schmeling—when he faces champion Joe Louis in a 15 round battle in the Chicago Stadium Friday night.

Louis revealed today that he is going to imagine that he is fighting Schmeling, so that he can prove a few things to himself and correct mistakes he made when the German knocked him out in 11 rounds two years ago. This will be his last engagement before a return match with Schmeling somewhere in these United States next June 22.

"I'm going after Thomas the same way I expect to go after Schmeling," Louis said. "Thomas has an awkward style. He does everything wrong. He fires his shell, from any old place and knows nothing about boxing but that won't stop me from practicing on him with some of the stuff I will use on the German."

Final Workouts Today
Louis and the challenger go through their final workouts today. Neither figures to do any more than box a couple of rounds and breeze through some loosening up exercises. While Thomas was loafing yesterday, Louis sweated through six rounds against three opponents in the kind of warm weather he likes. The power of the Negro's left hooks and his straight left jab were convincing.

The number of paying customers who will give up from $2 to $10 is a subject for conjecture. The box office attendants say the advance sale is nearing the $35,000 mark, and that the gate will hit $80,000.

JUST FIGHTING NAME
Chicago, March 30—(AP)—Harry Thomas is just a fighting name.

The right name of the 195 pound rugged man from Eagle Bend, Minn., who brawls with Joe Louis in the Chicago Stadium Friday night, is Henry Pontius. He took the ring name from his uncle, Dan Thomas, old time fighter in England and Wales, now conducting a gym for boxers in Los Angeles.

It also is his mother's maiden name. Thomas, or Pontius, is a mixture of French, Irish, Welsh and Scottish blood, although he cannot figure out the percentages. Officially he's 28 years old, but off the record he's a trifle older. He has been fighting since 1932.

The bout will be broadcast at 10 p. m. by station WENR.

The song "Dixie" was composed in 1859 and used by the Confederates as a war song.

INVITATIONS TO BELOIT RELAYS ARE SENT OUT
Seventy colleges representing Indiana, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Michigan, Iowa, Illinois, Minnesota, Nebraska, and Colorado, have received invitations to compete in the second annual Beloit College Relays to be held at Walter Strong Memorial Stadium, Friday night, May 6. This relay carnival, which met with excellent popularity last year, is the only one of its type which maintains a closed entry list for the smaller colleges observing the three year eligibility rule.

Various committees have been picked and vast plans are under way to make this meet even greater than last year's event.

Two special events have been added to this year's program with the running of a special mile race and an 880 yard relay for member high schools of the Wisconsin Big Eight conference.

Twenty colleges participated in last year's meet and this year the entry list is expected to be considerably larger. Coe college won the 1937 meet.

NEAR-REVOLT AND U. S. PROTEST ARE FACING MEXICANS

American Note Demands Explanation of How Mexico Will Pay

Mexico City, March 30.—(AP)—President Cardenas, summoning an "urgent" session of congress to help him, was confronted today with near-revolt by a segment of labor, and a vigorous United States protest against expropriation of the $400,000,000 oil industry.

The American protest was presented to the foreign ministry yesterday by Ambassador Josephus Daniels, and a high Mexican official indicated it was an energetic note demanding explanation how Mexico intended to pay for the 17 American and British oil properties.

The indications of labor dissatisfaction came from Carlos Flores, labor department inspector in Tampico and member of the powerful union there which controls 6,000 ex-employees of the Aguilera (Royal Dutch Shell) Company.

The government "took advantage" of labor-capital conflict to create international political conflict by the expropriation, Flores charged.

Asserting he spoke for other members of his union, Flores contradicted assertions by union head-quarters in Mexico City that all was peaceful among the workers. The Tampico union ousted a capital-approved administration council, demanded wage increases and other benefits.

"We are all discontented. We were far better off before," Flores said.

Tampico reports said every storage tank there was filled with oil, and there was no place to put crude or refined oil since the lack of foreign markets created by expropriation of the companies Mar. 17.

Workers Released
Asphalt, packing, shipping, marine and other departments of all shipping terminal were closed, and nearly 3,000 part-time workers were released.

From Poza Rica came reports that workers there were not paid Saturday or Monday, although the oil labor syndicate asserted "payments were effected normally throughout the industry" last week-end.

A permanent commission of congress was to meet late today to set a date for the congressional session, probably for the second ten days in April.

Cardenas' request for the session was coupled with a list of bills to be considered.

High among them was one for modification of import and export duties, increased as much as 50 per cent in January to the concern of the United States.

It was perhaps significant that Cardenas asked for tariff revision just after Ambassador Daniels' protest to Foreign Minister Eduardo Hay yesterday.

Daniels protested the expropriation on his first visit and expressed U. S. Secretary of State Hull's view of the "seriousness" of the situation.

There was no indication of the nature of the Mexican government's reply. Hay replied to questioning about the discussions that his memory was "perhaps the worst in Mexico."

Relations Strained
Daniels reported to Secretary Hull by telephone.

The protest, it was felt here, brought United States-Mexican relations to the most strained point since the 1927 conflict over control of the oil industry. A settlement was reached then by the late Ambassador Dwight Morrow.

The government still was gravely concerned whether the United States treasury could cut the price of silver another cent an ounce.

Mexico produces about 80,000,000 ounces of silver a year, and a great many mines are "marginal," unable to operate profitably if the price is much below 40 cents an ounce.

(The silver price was cut by one cent for the second day yesterday, making the price 43 cents against the 45 cents maintained since the first of the year. The United States Treasury announced Sunday it would suspend silver purchases from Mexico April 1, terminating its program of buying $2,500,000 in silver monthly but guaranteeing a day to day market. The price for domestic silver is 64.64 cents.)

Registration of Bicycles is Urged

Springfield, Ill., March 30.—(AP)—The welfare legislation committee of the advisory council for delinquency recommended enactment today of a state bicycle registration law.

The action followed a survey in 44 Illinois cities showing that of the 3,630 bicycles valued at $80,000 stolen last year, less than one third were recovered.

Police chiefs in 36 of the cities favored a registration law with annual fee of 50 cents or less, four favored the law without a fee, three were opposed to such legislation and one didn't comment. All, however, favored the use of manufacturer's serial numbers, to curb thefts.

Air Mail Week
An intensive drive to awaken public interest in the airmail service is being made by the postoffice department through its 46,000 offices covering the nation.

The week of May 15 to May 21 has been officially designated as "National Air Mail Week" in commemoration of the 20th anniversary of regular air mail service.

From a 218 mile flight between New York and Washington inaugurated on May 15, 1918, the service has been expanded to a system of 62,826 miles on which planes flew last fiscal year a total of over 70 million miles.

When air mail service was first inaugurated, service was operated in two relays with planes having a speed of only about 80 miles per hour. One pilot would fly from New York to Philadelphia, a distance of 90 miles and another pilot would relieve him and continue the trip from Philadelphia to Washington, a distance of 123 miles. Today flights of a thousand miles with full loads of mail, passengers and express are common occurrences.

Postmaster Frank P. Donagh wishes to announce that prizes are being offered for the best essays on the subject, "Wings Across America", and the best posters based on the idea "Posters Relating to the Airmail Service of the Present and Future and Its Adaptability to the Needs of the Nation." Full information regarding the contest and prizes may be obtained at the local post office.

A special and official cachet for airmail has been authorized for Kitty Hawk, North Carolina, the birthplace of aviation, for this Airmail Week by the post office department. This cachet is to commemorate the first flight and will pay due honor to Kitty Hawk, now marked by an enduring memorial, for the place it holds in record of the United States' progress in aviation. Each town and city in the United States will also be privileged to have a special cachet for the transmission by airmail during this week.

Plans are being formulated for a distinctive cachet to be sent from the Compton, Illinois post office during this week and any suggestions for this cachet may be given to Postmaster Frank P. Donagh and they will be given due consideration as an especially attractive cachet is wanted. If enough suggestions are received to warrant it, this cachet will be especially printed for this occasion, and distributed for mailing during National Air Mail Week.

Reorganization of Comptroller's Procedure is Advocated
Urbana, Ill., March 30.—(AP)—A three-point reorganization of the United States comptroller general's office was advocated today by Lloyd Morcy, comptroller and accountability professor of the University of Illinois.

Morcy, recognized as an authority on government finance, said he submitted his proposals at the request of "several" members of the Senate.

Declaring the present operation of the office to be "inadequate", he suggested an accounting division, under the direction of the President; an auditing division reporting directly to Congress, and a standing committee of Congress to receive and consider reports from the auditing office.

Morcy said the comptroller general's office as now operated gave "inadequate attention to the question of a suitable accounting system for the government and little or no attention to preparation and distribution of reports showing the financial condition and operation of the government."

Gold production in the Union of South Africa during the last year amounted to 11,740,000 ounces, a new record.

STORIES IN STAMPS
BOAT BUILDERS of the ORIENT

HOMES dot the Occident but the Orient lives in boats. No place in the world does the boat count for so much from the cradle to the grave as there. So the Orientals have become through the centuries boat builders extraordinary.

The art is rare from Hawaii to Hong Kong, from Japan to Zamboanga. Probably the most picturesque and colorful little crafts in the world are to be found in the Far East. And certainly the most efficient in the light of marine design.

Take the dugout or the sampans, the prau, the houseboat and the junk. Millions spend their lives in these boats. In China every boat is a houseboat. In Japan, too, there is a class that knows no other homes. With consummate ease their swarthy owners glide these boats in and out the myriad seas and rivers of the Orient, plying the trade and business of the centuries. Even the washup has become a boat, employed by beggars on the Yangtze. They are large, with shovels for oars. But they get around.

Most famous of all, perhaps, and certainly the common symbol of the Far East is the junk. One is shown here on a 1918 Chinese stamp. One also appears on the 1935 U. S. Trans-Pacific airmail postage stamp.

QUARANTINE LIFTED
Wheaton, Ill.—(AP)—The scarlet fever quarantine was lifted from the Dupage county jail yesterday, but only two of the 17 persons confined enjoyed their freedom. They were Deputy Sheriffs Ralph Hawbecker and Harold Goodlow. The other 15 were prisoners. The jail was quarantined March 21.

Foreign demand for American bicycles is increasing, exports in the last year being valued at $91,000 compared with $61,000 in the preceding year, Mexico is the leading market.

Mr. Mussolini Minus Uniform

Cake Walk Enjoyed By Townsend Club

The Townsend club No. 2 of Dixon met Monday evening in their regular weekly meeting at the Rosbrook hall at 7:30 o'clock. Dr. Gebhardt, who is president, called the meeting to order. Mrs. Lucy R. Eastman is secretary and Lawrence L. Leydig is treasurer. After the business meeting Dr. Gebhardt turned the meeting over to Mrs. Albert Cline, chairman for the social period.

Mrs. Albert Cline was assisted by Mrs. W. H. Gebhardt, Mrs. D. C. Beightel, Mrs. Phillip O'Connell, and Mrs. Lee Eastman. The committee worked very hard and should be congratulated for the great success of the party.

The program presented was as follows:
Music by John Tripper and Theodore Boyd.

Play presented by Mrs. D. C. Beightel and Lawrence L. Leydig.

Reading given by Mrs. D. C. Beightel.

Music by Miss King of Eldena.

The group of young Townsends from Oregon gave a fine program of singing, playing and tap dancing.

The program was very much enjoyed by all.

Mr. Short of Oregon, now president of the 13th Congressional district, gave an inspiring talk on "Why I am for the Townsend Plan." Being an orator of note, his talk instilled new enthusiasm and energy into all present.

Mrs. Cline then introduced the "Cake Walk" and all of the 150 people present tried to get a cake. Being something new to this community the cake walk proved to be entertaining as well as a lot of fun for all concerned. After all cakes were selected there was dancing and refreshments.

The guests came from Oregon, Ashton, Franklin Grove and Sterling, as well as from Dixon.

Because of the tremendous success of the "Cake Walk" in which 150 people turned out on a rainy night, the crowd immediately demanded another party, so the club will hold their next social time on Monday evening, April 18, when a dance is being planned.

A. F. L. Endorses Congressman Lucas
Chicago, March 30.—(AP)—Scott W. Lucas, who is seeking the Illinois Democratic senatorial nomination in the April 12 primary, announced today that President William Green of the American Federation of Labor had termed his congressional record on labor measures as "one hundred per cent favorable."

The statement, Congressman Lucas said, was contained in a letter Green sent to Secretary Charles Goolsby of the Jacksonville, Ill., Trades & Labor Assembly.

Green's letter said in part: "I would regard the votes he (Lucas) cast and the record he made upon measures sponsored and supported by the American Federation of Labor, while serving as a member of Congress, as one hundred per cent favorable."

2. HOW TO RID YOUR LAWN OF WEEDS—

I know lots of folks have given up hope of ever having a weedless lawn. And if I try to tell them that they really can have one they're likely not to believe me. But the treatment I'm going to prescribe has cured lots of lawns that their owners had given up for lost, and I certainly want to urge you to give it a fair trial.

In trying to get rid of weeds, the first thing to consider is this. A weed and a grass plant just naturally can't grow on the same identical spot. If you have enough grass plants, if your turf is thick enough, the weeds can't get started. But when your grass is thin, when it doesn't completely cover the ground, every little spot of bare soil practically invites weed seeds to light and grow. And you know you can't keep weed seeds off your place; every breeze brings in a crowd of them. So you see why it is that if your grass gets thin you're sure to have a healthy crop of dandelions and plantains and other pests.

Proper Feeding Essential
The real answer to this thin grass problem—and consequently to the weed problem—is proper feeding. Because a thin, weedy lawn is a half-starved lawn, almost every time. Here's why.

All through the growing season your grass roots are constantly drawing eleven different food elements from the soil, and every single one of these elements is necessary for healthy growth. If you let even one of them become exhausted from the soil, you're headed for trouble. Just like a child on an incomplete diet, your grass will become thin and sickly, will begin to die out. And right then the weeds get going! So the first and by far the most important step in controlling weeds is to make sure that your grass has all eleven of these needed food elements.

The propelling power of a whale is enormous, and no accurate estimate can be made of it. One instance is recorded of a blue whale that towed a steamer, by the harpoon rope, for 24 hours, in spite of the fact that the ship's engines were in reverse.

Crane Operator is Drowned in Effort to Save Companion

Quincy, Ill., March 30-(AP)—Gordon Holbert, 35, a Davenport, Ia., crane operator, drowned in the Mississippi river here last night when he tried to rescue a fellow workman.

Holbert and three other employees of the McCarthy Construction company of Davenport were thrown in to the water when a launch into which they had just loaded a heavy pump from a barge was swamped by weight and a high wind.

Holbert and two others pulled themselves to the barge. Then the former plunged into the water to rescue Emil Amundson. Amundson was sucked under the barge but managed to swim clear and reach the barge. Holman was swept away by the current.

The victim was survived by his widow at a nearby trailer camp and his father in Bettendorf, Ia.

The workmen were engaged in loading barge equipment for transfer on the towboat Iowa of Clinton, Ia., to Fulton, Ill.

DO YOU KNOW ILLINOIS?

By EDWARD J. HUGHES,
Secretary of State

Q. Who succeeded Governor John Oglesby upon his election to the U. S. Senate and his resignation as governor?

A. John Lowrie Beveridge.

Q. Where and when was Beveridge born?

A. Greenwich, Washington county, New York, July 6, 1824.

Q. What positions did Beveridge hold prior to his succession to the governorship?

A. Sheriff of Cook county, state senator, congressman-at-large, and lieutenant-governor.

Q. What peculiar circumstances aided Beveridge in his rise to the governorship?

A. He resigned from Congress to take the position of lieutenant-governor. He was inaugurated on Jan. 13, 1873 with Governor Oglesby. On Jan. 21 Oglesby was elected to the U. S. Senate. Within a space of three weeks Beveridge was congressman, lieutenant-governor, and governor.

Q. What new party grew up in Illinois in 1874?

A. "Illinois State Independent Reform" party, meeting in state convention at Springfield, June 10, 1874.

Q. Of what groups was this party formed?

A. Farmers, mechanics, laboring men, and other citizens.

Q. Who was the principal speaker at this convention?

A. Ex-governor John M. Palmer. Q. What was Governor Palmer's stand as indicated by his speech?

A. That "political parties had accomplished their work and it was time for them to give way. That whatever these parties might have been in the past, certain it was they had outlived their usefulness."

Q. What were the principal points of the Reform party's platform?

A. In favor of retrenchment and reform; reform of abuses in the civil service; in favor of improving the navigation of lakes and rivers; opposed to any further grants of lands or loans to corporations; demanding the repeal of the national banking law; and the issue of legal tender currency direct from the Treasury, interchangeable for government bonds bearing the lowest possible interest rate; in favor of the right of the legislature to regulate and control railroads.

Q. What candidates were nominated at this reform convention?

A. David Gore for state treasurer and Samuel M. Etter for superintendent of public instruction.

either of the former. These boys have been practicing diligently to take their test for a higher license at Sterling March 30.

An Aerona model KC, powered by Continental model A40, came in from an Air Activities airport at St. Charles. The ship was an unusual one for the light plane class, because it was equipped with radio and beam flying was practiced. The airway beam put out by the department of commerce is just south of the field.

Raymond Young of Mt. Morris, who used to belong to one of our clubs, was here Tuesday looking for a used ship to buy.

There have been large crowds at the port the past Sundays, due to the nice weather and also to the large number of people showing an interest in aviation this spring and also to the fact that a number of fine gas model planes built by local enthusiasts have been flown.

Last week a grass fire starting on the Northwestern right of way just at the south edge of the field and fanned by a strong south wind swept across the field and for awhile threatened buildings on the port grounds and also on the Dan Utz farm.

Ralph Newman has been having his ship given a major overhauling which accounts for our not seeing it in the air in recent weeks. Ralph expects to have it in the air soon.

Justin Dart flew in, in the Walgreen ship, the Skydart, Saturday, and it was housed in the local hangar over the weekend. It aroused much interest this trip because it was the first time it had been in Dixon for some time.

Paul James was a visitor here Sunday, as was Glenn Shaver.

Spring cleaning is evident around the hangar this past week for Dr. Moss and Dr. McDaniel have had their respective ships cleaned and waxed by the airport's cleaner-uppers.

One of the Sterling Cubs came over from Sterling Sunday to borrow the parachute as they needed it to practice spins, etc.

DEMOCRATS IN NEW FACTIONAL CAMPAIGN RIFT

Central Committee's Action Full Of It Last Two Years

Springfield, Ill., March 30—(AP)—The only action of the Democratic state central committee during the past two years was to organize itself in a tumultuous display of factionalism.

The members elected in 1936 met only once. Management of the majority party, theoretically vested in the committee, was taken over by rival leaders while the 25 committeemen remained officially inactive.

The Republican committee followed the opposite course of holding frequent meetings to debate minority strategy, but it also had its wings clipped as the newly-organized county chairmen took control of the experiment with an endorsed primary slate.

New committees will be elected at the April 12 primary, each party naming one man from each of the 25 congressional districts.

Democrats are engaging in another fight for factional control, with Horner men opposing allies of the Kelly-Nash organization in many districts.

Only two of the Democratic committeemen elected in 1936 are not in the current fight, Dan Sullivan of Chicago, Governor Horner's administrative auditor and close adviser, died last year. Bruce A. Campbell of Belleville announced his retirement as state chairman before he got in the race for treasurer.

Sullivan Led Protest
It was Sullivan who led Horner's downstate protest after Campbell was elected chairman by Chicagoans. That was the only session and the group wasn't asked to endorse either of the 1938 primary slates.

One of the hottest of the current fights is in the 25th district. A. M. (Al) Carter of Murphysboro, assistant state auditor and former committeeman, is attempting to avenge his 1936 replacement by A. M. (Doc) Thompson of Marion, a member of the Horner industrial commission. Carter partisans have made an issue of the discovery of Thompson's mother and other relatives on the state's old age pension rolls.

Whereas only three Democrats seats are uncontested, 10 Republican committeemen are being elected by default. Eight G. O. P. incumbents are retiring.

Hiram L. Williamson of Springfield, who had a long career as state superintendent of printing, is one of the Republicans seeking election to the committee. It is his first campaign.

Three Republican committeemen are retiring to run for the House of Representatives. They are Secretary William R. Allen of Peoria, William J. Lewis of Streator and Dana P. Munn of Sterling.

Day by Day Lessons for Reading During Lenten Season

Read St. John 9:1-7.
Jesus answered, Neither has this man sinned, nor his parents; but that the works of God should be made manifest in him. I must work the works of him that sent me, while it is day: the night cometh, when no man can work.

As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.
Our Lord has just been through that terrific scene of conflict in the Temple at the Feast of the Dedication, when they ended by taking up stones to cast at Him. But their plans were not yet mature; they did not pursue Him; He went quietly out of the Temple, as once before at Nazareth.

After such a scene, where we have stopped to notice a blind beggar at the gate, who had not even asked for help?
But He will show us that light, even though it shines in darkness, cannot be overcome by it. In the healing of this blind man is a parable of the triumph of the light.

And if the blind can see, And some who see are blind, What then is sight?
O grant the blind to see That which alone, to Thee, Is Light.

—Berthold Browning.
O Light invisible, we give Thee thanks for Thy great glory!

Night Watchman Says He's King by Right

FRANCE may be a republic to others, but to one man France is still a kingdom—his own. He is a night watchman in New Orleans, but claims the title of Louis XIV. by direct descent, although history says the line ended with Louis XVII.

change Commission and a staunch believer in stock market regulation remarked:

"When the Ship of State is listing what difference does it make if the passengers in the first class cabin cheat at cards?"

Roosevelt Mystery
Various explanations are put forward by members of the Inner Circle for Roosevelt's six-months inactivity. Most of them are pure speculation, but they include:

He is preoccupied with the sinister international situation.
He wanted Congress to push him into spending more relief and emergency money.

He wanted business men also to push him.
He didn't want to begin a new spending program himself because it would be an admission that the 1936 recovery was built on insecure foundation.

He didn't believe that the recession was going to be serious, thought it would right itself with a little breathing spell to business. With the exception of the first, there is probably some truth in all of these reasons.

There are, in addition, two other factors more complicated to explain but important none the less. One is the fact that this country has been operating on a spending program for years — though we haven't always known it — and Roosevelt is now trying to balance the budget.

The World War days were nothing but a huge spending spree, spending money which Europe was supposed to pay back, but never will. Then after the war came the era of lending money to South America and Europe, money which was largely spent for goods right here in this country, and which never will be repaid.

Right on the heels of this came the Coolidge Bull Market, when people spent the paper margins — which later vanished into thin air. Then came Roosevelt's spending program plus the bonus, which shot the prosperity index to the skies.

And now, in a few short months, the country is down to almost no spending.
Note—Henry Morgenthau, chief opponent of spending, now seems to have been won over to the idea.

The other important factor is Roosevelt's sudden cautiousness. He is like the men who work on New York skyscrapers. When one of them is killed by a fall, the rule on all high building construction is that work stops for the rest of the day.

This vacation is not motivated by fear of carelessness on the part of the surviving workers. Just the opposite—the men become so careful that they lose their sense of balance, their sangfroid, their confidence, and accidents result.

Roosevelt also has become cautious. Now he looks carefully before he takes each step. Theoretically this is what he should do, were it not for the fact that Roosevelt normally follows his hunches, not the rule of reason.

He has rare political instinct, but today he's not acting on it. He's being so super-careful that it's painful. And it may be that having been up to the high places and shown the awful chasm of political defeat awaiting anyone who lets the country down into another lasting depression, the President has become too cautious to fight.

This was the way Inner Circle minds were running until the Gainesville speech. Now they are feeling decidedly better. They are hoping that when the President returns to the Capital, he will be the old, fighting Roosevelt.

At any rate, the next few weeks will tell the story. They will determine whether Gainesville was merely a puff, or the opening salvo of a new offensive.

Pike's Peak undoubtedly is Colorado's best known mountain, and Long's Peak runs a close second, but both of these must look up to numerous other summits of Colorado.

Mount Elbert and Mount Massive, two of Colorado's little known mountain peaks, hold the record for height in that state, with 14,220 feet of height each. They tower more than 300 feet above Pike's Peak.

Darwin spent five years as a naturalist on board a survey ship in the Atlantic and Pacific oceans before undertaking the scientific researches which made him famous.

New U. S.-Canadian Link of Concrete and Steel

Cementing still more firmly traditional Canadian-American peace, workmen are hurrying to complete the $2,000,000 Thousand Islands bridge spanning the St. Lawrence river between New York state and Ontario province. As graphically depicted in the artist's sketch above, the project consists of five separate bridge spans, linked by strips of highway and connecting Collins Landing on the American side with Ivy Lea on the Canadian shore. The span shown at extreme left is a suspension bridge across the American channel to Wellesley Island. Actually linking the U. S. and Canada is the 90-foot arch over the International Rapids between Wellesley and Hill Islands. Three smaller arch and suspension bridges connect Georgiana Island, Constance Island and the Canadian mainland. The map at lower right shows highways leading to the project from large cities in each country. At left, below, Commissioner F. J. Martin and Secretary W. G. Mitchell of the Thousand Islands Bridge Authority, are shown during an inspection tour in an "ice scooter," flat-bottom vessel driven by an airplane propeller, which travels on either ice or water.

MODERN SHERLOCK THROWS NEW LIGHT ON TORSO MURDER

Cheltenham, Eng., March 30—(AP)—Sir Bernard Spilsbury, England's modern Sherlock Holmes has thrown new light on the torso murder mystery that has baffled Scotland Yard for two months.

Testifying at an inquest, Sir Bernard drew these conclusions from his examination of the dismembered remains found in the River Severn February 3:

1. A hatchet, found in the lodge of Brian Sullivan, 27-year-old dancer, fitted notches in the bones recovered from the river. Sullivan was found dead from gas poisoning under mysterious circumstances before the torso was discovered.
2. Shoes belonging to Captain William Butt fitted the severed feet taken from the river. Captain Butt, a close friend of Sullivan, has vanished.
3. Bruises on the torso indicated the victim was struck by a speeding automobile and cut up after death. Both Sullivan and Butt when last seen alive were driving automobiles.
4. It probably took two people to put the torso in the river. A man riding with Sullivan the last time the dancer was seen also has vanished.

THE NEW DE LUXE

Ford V-8

85 H.P.—8 BODY TYPES—6 COLORS

See for yourself how fine these new cars are... then ask yourself, "Why Pay More?"

THESE new De Luxe types are the biggest Ford V-8 cars ever built. The sedan above, for instance, measures 10 inches longer over all than last year's roomy Ford. The hood is longer. Luggage space, too, has been increased. And, along with new size, interiors show new richness. From the outside, these cars present a beauty distinctly their own. Yet there has been no sacrifice of Ford V-8 handling ease. The 112-inch wheelbase remains, with 123-inch springbase. The responsive 85 horsepower V-8 engine gives exceptional gas mileage for its brilliant performance. Many people have wished for a bigger, richer Ford V-8 and now it is here... at a typically low Ford price. You are invited to see it and drive it for yourself before you choose your new car.
